Copyright and Permissions Information

Our copyright and permissions information is also available on our website at http://www.amphilsoc.org/library/rights.htm

• The copyright law of the United States (Title 17, United States Code) governs the making of photocopies or other reproductions of copyrighted material.

• Under certain conditions specified in the law, libraries and archives are authorized to furnish a photocopy or other reproduction. One of these specified conditions is that the photocopy or reproduction is not to be “used for any purpose other than private study, scholarship, or research.” If a user makes a request for, or later uses, a photocopy or reproduction for purposes in excess of “fair use,” that user may be liable for copyright infringement.

• This institution reserves the right to refuse to accept a copying order if, in its judgment, fulfillment of the order would involve violation of copyright law.

American Philosophical Society Library Policies on Reproduction of Materials (subject to change without prior notice)

The American Philosophical Society (APS) provides photo-reproductions in reasonable amounts for scholarly use under the following conditions:

• Fees are assessed for services in identifying, copying, and mailing duplicates.

• The APS reserves the right not to duplicate any book or manuscript that in the judgment of the staff may be harmed in the process. Photocopy orders are limited to no more than 400 exposures.

• Except for brief excerpts, material under copyright will not be duplicated without the prior written permission of the copyright owner. Researchers assume sole responsibility for any infringement of copyright.

• Copies are prepared solely for the use of the researcher and may not be placed in other repositories without the prior written permission of the APS.

• Microfilm and color transparencies are made available only as loans to individual researchers, and must be returned to the Library. Microfilm is available on loan for six months, renewable upon request for up to an additional six months. Transparencies are available for six months.

Creator:   State Penitentiary for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania

Title:    State Penitentiary for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania Records

Dates:    1819-1955

Abstract: Intended as a model of Jacksonian penal reform, the Eastern State Penitentiary operated in the Cherry Hill section of Philadelphia between 1829 and 1970. Designed to promote the moral reform of prisoners by imposing a regimen of silent, solitary self-reflection, the penitentiary became the purest example of the "Pennsylvania plan" of "cellular isolation." The Records of the Eastern State Penitentiary consist of seven bound volumes and a series of miscellaneous records and correspondence that document aspects of life in Jacksonian America's model prison. The collection has been organized into four series: Series I, Bound Volumes; Series II, Miscellaneous Records; Series III, Correspondence of Elizabeth Velora Elwell; and Series IV, Prisoners' Correspondence. The bound volumes contain records of admission for prisoners between 1830 and 1892 (with some gaps), three of which were kept and annotated by the Moral Instructor at the prison, Thomas Larcombe. Larcombe provided interesting comments on the "moral state" of each prisoner, in addition to data on name, age, gender and race, religious affiliation, the charges, sentence, and final disposition. The unbound materials in the collection are diverse, but include an important 70 page manuscript comprising the records of the joint commission charged with investigating management of the prison in 1835, with a partial transcript of testimony, and a series of 29 letters written to or from prisoners at Eastern State, 1845-1871, most unusually the inmate Elizabeth Velora Elwell, writing to her paramour and fellow inmate Albert Green Jackson.

John Smith was sentenced to 2 years in prison on Jan 10, 1837 for mischief. He was discharged on Jan 17, 1837. He was returned to prison on Jan 24, 1837.

John Williams, alias Blacksmith, was sentenced to 3 years in prison on Jan 10, 1837. He was discharged on Jan 17, 1837.

John Brown, alias Blacksmith, was sentenced to 3 years in prison on Jan 3, 1837. He was discharged on Jan 6, 1837.

The record indicates that the prisoners were to be returned to prison for various reasons, including new offenses or violations of parole conditions.

The reason for the release of John Brown was the completion of his sentence. The record notes the prisoner's good behavior and readiness for release.

The case of this man excited great sympathy Bonds with.

During the past fourteen years having occasion to be in a state of excitement or during a period of insanity, and often been firmly desiring to be relieved, or at times confined to prevent harm from committing violence upon himself. Between seizures several years ago he was in a state of indescribable irritability and agitation on account of his family and from apprehensions of the loss of reason consequent on injury. Consequences of violence before the subject were a variation of behavior to his family, with hard intemperance to destroy himself. Said he would get to be for his families sake. Was something to have it known that he had been a person of religious and not endure to bring a stain upon a cause that was dear to his heart. Though for the last 15 years he had lost sight of God's blessing & doing wrong from his sight. He deeply deplored the hope of years had dured him into a dreadful practice which had reviled to his view, the enticements of Corruption prevailing.

The whole extent of this community (Phoebe) is in the bishopship of his spirit, intends that every one associated with the wide sphere of her ministry, prancing the higher class as well as lower, would, just as far as what seems under the direction of those, they would be broke in, at the least amount and at the methods adapted to control etc. He looked back upon it with
